A Touch of Music

The year was filled with many sounds, both old and new, common and unusual.

The crunch of cinders when Ms. Brooks, Mrs. Anthony, and Mrs. Baldwin and others participated in a faculty walk for charity.

The "buzzer" signifying the end of a game became a familiar sound after workmen installed a new scoreboard for the practice field.

The chattering of students returned to school in August with registration day.

The Beat Goes On . . .

During the year, many students found it necessary to get away from school. Some did this by going to the Friday night football games. Here they could get riled up with their other classmates. Their voices crescendoed to a peak as the team emerged from the locker room.

On the other hand, many students decided to get as far away from school, and the people in the school, as possible. They did this by cruising down Eldorado Street, to the beat of the tunes on their radios.

If they got hungry, they could be found sitting in their cars, sipping on a rootbeer at Elam's or munching down on some french fries at McDonald's or at Steak 'N' Shake.

The music continued on through the night, especially at Showbiz, where there was a live D.J. who played anything from the top 40 to hard rock to the latest in soul music. At Showbiz, the students could chose either to dance to the music or just to sit and listen to the syncopated beat.

As the night wore on, students got together in small or large groups and talked about everything from homework to car engines, concerts to girlfriends or boyfriends. But mostly the talk centered on parties past, present, or future.

Besides standing around talking, the "cool" thing to do was to drive slowly, or cruise, down Eldo, yelling at the people talking, on the sides.

The nights ended on a downbeat as curfew approached and the crowds diminished.

Carrying the Tune

Music seemed to spill into our lives from all sides. The marching band's daily practices filled many fifth hour classes with melody. Their hard work and dedication were evident as they performed their elaborate marching routines for the half-time shows.

After school the music blared from a cassette player while the Pom-Pon girls practiced their syncopated dance routines outside the cafeteria.

Choir concerts provided an opportunity to enjoy the special talent of singing possessed by many students. Here Heather Corrington and Dian Brown rehearse during class on hat day.

Following the Rhythm

It seemed as if it would be forever until graduation, but the days flew past so quickly, we hardly knew where they had gone. Students followed the same old routines they always had.

A typical day went something like this: students congregated in their cliques in the student parking lot before school, at lunchtime everyone trudged to "their" tables so they could sit with their friends and talk about the days activities; finally everyone trooped out to catch their bus or to take off in their cars, eager to escape from school.

Our lives were spent just following rhythms, whether we set the rhythms ourselves or they were set by someone else.

Life in Sync

A student's day has always begun with making many rough decisions regarding homework or what to wear and how to act.

Students always paved their own road. Each student was considered an individual. Paving began at the Freshman year and ended at the Senior; all roads had different bumps and curves. With the academic studies hovering over them, they still managed to find time for their own pleasures.

As people slowly crowded into the school early in the morning, they started to form their morning cliques. They usually discussed personal issues and upcoming school events.

Two of the most talked about events were Homecoming and Prom dances. All the girls waited patiently to be asked while the guys kept their cool.

Students have always showed differences in their tastes in music. Some joined band and some followed the path to choir. Whichever path was followed, Eisenhower's music department has been and always will be well respected for the talent that E.H.S. students let shine through.

Students who joined an extracurricular activity followed their own rhythm. Some went into music, some went into sports, and some went into acting. Turnouts were great. Participation is what kept the drum beating. Students had a large choice of activities. For those who didn't want to be involved with acting or music, foreign language clubs, science clubs, and even academic clubs provided education and fun.

As the days came to a close, the students' adrenaline began to pump harder, so that when the bell rang, everyone who was originally in a bad mood, suddenly broke loose and sighed relief.

Behind the Scenes . . .

Chaos — a word used to describe the Sights 'N' Sounds of '84. Of course, it was only the first rehearsal, but still . . . Mrs. Kistler ran around trying to direct not only the lighting crew and the cast, but also the stage manager, Biff Hawkins, so that he could direct the stage crew. Mr. Scott tried desperately to keep his sanity while playing EVERYONE'S music (the accompanist couldn't make it). Of course, everyone was confused because the order of the show had been changed again.

Second rehearsal — A little more organized; things were shaping up. It wasn't necessary to run through numbers five times to get it right; two or three did the job nicely. Last minute touches were added to all costumes. Ginger Sanders found the plastic fruit she needed for her head-dress. Everyone breathed a big sigh of relief, especially Mr. Scott (the accompanist finally showed up). The worst was yet to come: Opening night!

The show was fantastic! Hard work had paid off. After only two nights of practice, the show went almost perfectly. Amanda Harres did have a little trouble with her microphone cord during "Hey Big Spender." There were a few shaky notes from some singers and a few missed steps by the dancers, due to nerves. On the whole, the first musical production of the year was a huge success.

"Against All Odds"

After the whole week's activities it was time to mellow down for the weekend. Wrong! Instead it got more stimulating for everyone.

First the day began by everyone decorating their class hall for judging. The Freshman hall was good for the beginners. The Sophomores' hall was well done with all the lights and balloons hanging around most of the hall. The Junior hall was very unusual with the eerie purple lights. It was like walking in a haunted house. The Senior hall was very original with the bright lights and the great decorations.

As the day came to an end, the students became more excited. Everyone rushed to their special section to sit with their sixth hour classes. The assembly started out with a bang. The Flag Corps members were introduced with a great routine. Then her royal majesty and her court were introduced. Everyone cheered for their favorite.

After they settled down a little bit, the rest of the assembly got under way. There were tumblers, water baloon throwers, cream pie splatterers, and wheelbarrel racers, who carried out the Homecoming theme "Against All Odds."

We Love A Parade

Walking through the halls on homecoming week was quite an odd occurance. Monday you might have seen your best friend dressed up in high-water pants, mismatched socks and strangely colored K-Mart print shirts. On the other hand, you might have been amazed to spy a dependable Izod or crisply pressed Khaki pants, No, your imagination didn't run away from you; it was just nerd versus prep day. The most "in-clad" people normally went out of their way to find the dorkiest, kookiest, absolutely most nerdy ways to attire themselves.

On Tuesday, the most colorful day, each class wore a different color. If you were lucky you might even have caught a brave Frog, — Freshman, actually wearing green to school. The Sophomores were clad in shades of purple and the Juniors were found in blue. The Seniors ruled the school in red which topped the cake.

Illinois, Purdue, North Western and UCLA were on t-shirts, jackets and sweatshirts on Wednesday as you might have seen your classmates advertising their favorite college.

To bring to a climax and draw to a close the fun week of dressing up, the school really showed some of that panther spirit on Friday. The halls were filled with everything wearable that comes in black and white. A parade was held that evening but instead of dressing up themselves, each class used their originality and artistic talent to dress up a float. They ranged from a T.V. to a Senior boat and a Junior "Jaws' " to a Sophomores' version of putting the "Tigers on Ice." The entire week was a success and a way to show some school spirit.

AGAINST ALL ODDS

All through Homecoming week excitement filled the air while each student anxiously awaited the "big night" . . . A night held in the dreams of almost every student, hoping to attend with that special person . . . A night long awaited and soon to come, filled with enthusiasm.

The dance was significant. It was one of the many wonderful memories of the year. Everyone seemed to enjoy it as they swayed around the gymnasium to the popular tunes produced by SECOND SHIFT. At first all hoped it would be a night to last forever, yet when eleven o'clock rolled around everyone was relieved that the day had come to an end.

MONSTER MASH

Everyone came to school with anticipation; a rumor had been going around. Some students were going to dress up — the forbidden fun! Halloween strikes a mischievous mood in everyone and Shawn McDuffie and Robbie Grenier were no exception. Shawn came as Cyndi Lauper and Robbie came as a Punk Rocker.

And of course whoever heard of a Halloween without pranks? Trick-or-Treating was an activity shared by some, while those who felt that they were too old for that type of thing soaped windows and helped neighbors celebrate by "decorating" trees.

After play practice, the Thespian actors went caroling and then, in the dark of the late night, their true orange & black colors showed through. Somehow, the play director's yard had gotten filled with scraps of paper so thick that it looked like Christmas already!

The Show Went On

Despite a series of setbacks, the fall play finally got off the ground. It started out in the usual manner: a large group of students tried out for the play, the director selected the best to be in the cast, and rehearsals started. Then, disaster struck! The school's new eligibility rule was enforced and three cast members were struck from the cast. In less than four weeks of rehearsal, the rest of the cast pulled together to go on with the show.

The show was different from the past traditional mystery plays. It was a collection of fables and stories. The cast pretended to be a group of neighborhood kids playing in a backyard. Considering all the hardships the cast went through, including playing to a small audience, they did an excellent job.

THE BEAT OF THE CLUB

It blasted loudly throughout the halls on "boxes" and garbled from the brightly colored headphones of walkmans. From pop to soul, rap to heavy metal, the day began and ended with a pulsing beat.

For some, the day didn't end with the 2:40 bell; it had only just begun. Like turning the dial of a stereo, the station changed from the mandatory to the extracurricular.

Anyone who walked past rooms occupied by club members might feel the rhythm and drive of well-oiled machines or the chaotic notes of individuals with bright ideas. At times, they drove their advisors to schemes, but this was just a step in growing up. Men and women were social beings. Clubs were steps on the ladder to becoming those social persons.

The best thing about kids was and always would be that they had the energy! A great deal of that energy came from the force and love they felt for their music. There were times when there was tension between different people, whites and blacks, preps and punks, the norms and the rads. It was a shame that some people let themselves be ruled by prejudices, but the clubs didn't work that way. Different people worked together to do their jobs whether it was promoting spirit or informing the student body. Everyone should have remembered that he or she was the same as the next person and that working together wasn't so hard.

That was really the beat of the club; all hearts beating together, working for a cause.

Here's a Quarter . . .

All That Jazz

The Marching Panthers started out their season with a marching band camp in early August at Eastern Illinois University.

They worked hard, putting in at least eight hours a day marching or more. They worked at first on the basics, such as walking correctly and just staying in step, but soon they improved and started learning their show. Many times during camp, upperclassmen took the opportunity to voice their opinions on the marching abilities of the other band members. Learning the stepping techniques was harder than the Panthers thought it would be, but they finally mastered it after much screaming and ranting by their director, Mr. Streight. They finished up the week of camp with a performance for the parents.

The first public performance of the year was in the Labor Day Parade. The Marching Band was kept busy going to contests, playing at the home football games, and practicing.

All the work paid off as they earned fifth place at the U of I band contest in October, beating out their cross-town rival, MacArthur. The band also won third place at Shelbyville, then first place at the Mt. Pulaski Fall Festival, winning three-hundred dollars. All these wins culminated in winning first place in the Decatur Jaycee's Christmas Parade, winning two-hundred fifty dollars. The band was over one-hundred strong and performed smartly.

The band worked hard to be the very best that they could be. They were excellent and deserved the praise that they received.

Playing with Time

Throughout the year band members were required to play many different tunes. One week they might be playing and practicing a field show, during which the emphasis was on playing loud and moving in patterns on the field. More often than not, though, they could be found indoors practicing some difficult piece that required every bit of their musical ability to play.

With a symphonic band membership of over eighty and a concert bband membership of about twenty-five, this year the bands gave an impressive showing. Members of the concert band worked hard in the hopes of moving up to symphonic band. Many of the concert band members were freshmen, and even if they didn't make it into the top band this year, there was always next year. Playing their concerts on the same dates as the symphonic band, the lower band would sometimes play a number with the symphonic band. They always performed well and showed much talent for future years.

The symphonic band members had barely a month in which to prepare for the annual Christmas concert, but they put the short amount of time to good use. The concert was a success, and the band once again showed their versatility. They then went on to prepare for contests in the spring and their projected tour, set for late spring. Their pieces were difficult and the time spent to perfect them seemed like forever to the long suffering band members. Their director, Mr. Strieght, was tireless in striving for perfection. Sometimes it seemed they would never get that particular section right, but after much work the music sounded great.

1. Mr. Streight directs the jazz band in a musical number for an upcoming concert.

3. Kim McElvain showing enthusiasm for another day in band.

BLINDED ME WITH SCIENCE

These four clubs were devoted to learning and some to applying that knowledge to contests and competitions.

PSP was a little bit different. PSP stands for Principal Scholars Program, a program designed for minority students, to aid them especially in the areas of math and science. The members went to seminars at Millikin and were encouraged (especially by Head Counselor Emily Abbott) to participate in tests dealing with everything from engineering to Biology and all sorts of math.

JETS was the Junior Engineering Technological Society, a club based on just that — engineering. The main event this year was to invite guest speakers to talk on different fields of the engineering profession, educational requirements and benefits from becoming an engineer. Members took field trips to plants such as Caterpillar, wore funny-looking safety glasses, and found out to some extent how a factory was really run.

Academic Bowl was the closest thing to a game show at Eisenhower. The team, consisting of five players and some extras, was one that went to competitions where questions were asked about almost anything, to be answered by a short time limit.

They displayed their talents during an educational fair at Hickory Point Mall. The big accomplishment this year was that Eisenhower finally had a quiz board! The team had many new members to work on the meets.

TEAMS or Tests in Engineering and Math and Science was a select group of people mainly consisting of JETS members and/or those from Academic Bowl. Twelve students were chosen to represent Eisenhower in District competition in fields of engineering, math, chemistry, physics, biology, and graphics. The District competition occurred at Richland, the Regional at Eastern; that winner went to the U of I for State championship playoffs.

1. Various members of the JETS meet in the library to listen to their advisor, Mrs. Heiden.

3. Mrs. Heiden, (standing) however, JETS co-sponsor tells Mrs. Cussins that she is not amused by the question.

4. Mrs. Heiden and Darren Klockenga discuss JETS business.

Working Hard

The A-Team

The NHS, or National Honor Society, was a club that recognized the outstanding academic achievements of its members. All the members had an "A" grade average; hence, the name, the A-Team.

To be eligible to join NHS as a sophomore, students must have had a perfect 5.0 grade point average. As a junior, a 4.8 grade point average was needed. Seniors needed a 4.5 grade point average. There were 26 members who represented the top 5% of the school.

This year's officers were Beth Morrison, President; Darren Klockenga, Vice-President; Jane Lemna, Secretary; and Todd Gillespie, Treasurer.

The three main NHS functions were the induction in early spring, a picnic at the end of the year, and an annual dinner at which they "roasted" the teacher of the year.

The seal of the National Honor Society was a flaming torch over four letters CSLS. The Flaming torch was the symbol of the purpose of the organization to keep burning at Eisenhower a high ambition for the values of life and to serve on consideration of others. The letters CSLS stood for Character, Scholarship, Leadership, and Service.

The advisors for NHS were Mrs. Julia Heiden and Miss Mary Simpson.

New Frontiers

Gudrun Gylfadottir: What was that? Well, it wasn't a "that," it was a she, and she was the Scandinavian Sweetheart who stole our hearts this past year at EHS. "Gunna," as she preferred to be called, was our AFS foreign exchange student from Iceland.

Gunna was born and lives in Reykjavik, the capital of Iceland which has a population of about 99,000, almost half of the country's population of 220,000. Gunna said she wanted to come to the US because she wanted to learn about new customs and cultures, go to a new school with new friends, and live with another family. Back home, besides her parents, Gunna has a younger brother and sister.

In Iceland, Gunna attended high school and music school in which she took piano lessons. She said she liked to read and was athletic. She even played soccer. The school system in Iceland was different from the US. Students had to go to school from the time they were seven until they were fifteen and then four years of high school was optional but almost all students went, according to Gunna. Gunna planned to attend Iceland's only university in Reykjavik after she graduated from high school.

This wasn't the first time Gunna had been to the US. She had previously visited Maine. Gunna said Iceland is a beautiful mountainous country with active volcanoes and hot springs. She also said that there were similarities between us and Icelandic culture including family life and music.

No More Words

Even though everyone who attended the Language club picnic had something foreign in common, a passer-by wouldn't have guessed it because not too many foreign words were uttered. But who cares about foreign languages when you're having fun?

Besides the language club picnic, which was held at Nelson Park, the language clubs had other activities planned. It seemed as though the German club had planned to win the soccer tournament at the picnic. They did; not by planning, but by executing outstanding athletic abilities from its members. The German club also planned a trip to Jumer's Castle Lodge in Peoria and caroling at St. Mary's.

The French club participated in the homecoming parade and planned a progressive dinner with French cuisine (yum!). They also planned to carol and throw a party afterwards. Finally, a field trip to Six Flags was in order.

The Spanish club sold calendars to raise funds for their annual trip to Six Flags. In addition on the year's agenda were judging the best Halloween costume contest, making Christmas cards in Spanish and English for a nursing home and a party.

Finally, the Latin Club participated in the Junior Class League Convention at Sacred Heart Academy. Eisenhower was the secretary school; the appointed secretary had to read and take the minutes of last year's and this year's meeting.

In all, the clubs had a fun and successful year.

Student Council

Sponsor John Griffin once again has welded a fine student council. Griffin, who has been the advisor for the last 12 years, held the election of officers in September, who immediately began working to set up activities for Homecoming week. They organized the spirit halls and the pep rally. Some lucky girls and guys even received carnations, which were sold by the Student Council. They also had special activities the week before Christmas and the week of Valentines Day. These activities included sending messages and selling balloons. The Student Council sponsored the Homecoming Dance and a Sadie Hawkins Dance. One of their main goals was to increase the school spirit and the attendance at the games.

The events planned were not all for fun. They had the Red Cross come so willing students could give their blood. The Student Council had some students talk with the people in charge of the lunch program to explain the problems they saw and to offer suggestions. Several students were even involved in an inner city program where they could talk with Robert Oakes, the Superintendent of Schools. Weighted grades, now a reality, were discussed at that early meeting.

The Pretenders

One who creates an illusion: that is the definition of a Thespian. Whether the illusion was created by the set crew, the actors on stage, or the committees behind the scenes, all worked together to put on the Fall Play and Spring Musical. Thespians were a special kind of worker. In order to become a Thespian a student had to work on both major productions, but there was more to it than that. A Thespian was that one actor who really gave wholeheartedly to the play. It was that certain set crew member who did everything he was asked. A Thespian was what might be called a master-illusionist.

There were fifteen members of the Thespians. The president was Darren Klockenga, the vice president was Lisa Kingston. Mrs. Kistler, who taught acting and directed the talent show and musical, was the advisor.

A new fund raiser started by the Thespians this year was the Magic Message Service. For a fee, a group of Thespians would serenade, read a poem, or do a combination of both for special occasions, such as birthdays or anniversaries. The messages turned out to be a great success, even outside the school.

Whether the Thespians were working on the play, delivering a Magic Message, or participating in their annual awards ceremony, you could be sure they were having fun.

It Was Almost Like a SONG

All the choirs were judged superior in performance and in practice. The Freshmen choir was good for their first time being together from different schools.

The Advanced Girls might have only 22 members, but they were packed with fine sounds. Everywhere they sang, there was enjoyment by all. Most of this choir was composed of sophomores, but the juniors and seniors from the year before showed them what to do!

Who was the choir with the most beautiful voices? That's right! Concert Choir. The concert choir included students from Freshmen to Seniors. They blended well together even though some were from different backgrounds. When the concert choir sang the sound was like that of professionals. All of the year' choirs were really good under the direction of Mr. "Milt" Scott. With him, anyone can sound good. Milt Scott should be thanked for much of all of the choirs' successes.

He was also a key person who began the fabulous all Decatur schools' Christmas performance at Kirkland Auditorium in Millikin University. For the first time ever, combined high school choirs and faculty sang Vivaldi's "Gloria" after grueling practice on Dec. 17. We hope this will become an annual tradition.

SYNCRONICITY

The 1984-1985 Varsity Cheerleading Squad worked hard. Mrs. Hay considered them to be "the best skilled group of girls ever." As a result of their talent and dedication, they became "Grand Champs" at the JFC Cheerleading Camp.

The squad consisted of three seniors: Lori Watson, Thea Walker, and the captain, Beth Morrison, and five juniors: Kim Chizevsky, Jill Schultz, Leslie Davis, Vicki Crain, and Kim Guymon.

The girls had many reasons for becoming cheerleaders. Leslie Davis felt cheerleading gave her a front row view of the action. "It's a great way to meet people," remarked Vicki Crain. Kim Guymon added, "We are there to get the spirit up." Thea Walker, who has been a cheerleader for six years, throught "It was a great way to get involved with the school."

The Junior Varsity Cheerleading squad was also very good. They worked with the Varsity Squad to win first place in a dance competition. The summer of '84 they won ribbons for their over-all performance and dance routine.

The Pom-Pon squad this year showed their talent by winning many awards at the Universal Dance Camp at Southern Illinois University. A routine they developed won second place, and their squad won first place overall! Two spirit sticks were awarded to Eisenhower's girls because they had the most spirit, and they won thirty-six blue ribbons and four red ribbons on routines learned at camp. With the music as their guide, the veteran Pantherettes taught the rookies how to synchronize their moves. Throughout the year, their performance was beyond comparison.

Flag Corps used their skills with flags to guide them while they successfully accompanied the marching band. Their black and white flags boldly displayed the colors with pride. The Flag squad practiced three times a week to perfect their performance. Their participation at football games showed the crowd that Eisenhower had some pizzazz.

HELP!

Most people did not realize how important the assistants were to both students and teachers alike. In the library, the assistants checked out books for students and kept everything straight so students were not billed for fines incorrectly. They also helped Miss Woodring with the huge task of computerizing the library — a formidable job in itself.

Gym assistants made life a little easier for the PE teachers by running errands, passes, and other little jobs that Mr. Murphy or one of the other instructors had no time for.

In the main office, the hub of business in school, the assistants were a must for the secretaries. They not only did errands for the secretaries but also ran counselor passes or requests. They answered to every job that was set before them, no matter how large or small.

It was impossible to write about every task that these particular assistants were assigned, but the one thing that should have been understood was that being an assistant was not an "out" for study hall. It was a time to work and gain experience.

Beasts of Burden

Throughout the year, many students helped the faculty during their study hall time. Some such students were AVA, lab assistants, nurse assistants, and attendance office helpers.

The AVA team was a big help to Mr. Seidl, the audio-visual technician. They helped cart audio-visual materials from room to room and learned how to run the machinery. This allowed these students to gain a little technological knowledge.

Science teachers were glad to have the help of students in the laboratory. They helped set up laboratory projects for classes and ran errands for the teachers they were assisting.

The nurse's assistants aided the nurse in the performance of her duties. They ran errands for the nurse when needed, and they helped keep the nurse's office clean.

The attendance office helpers spent their time busily delivering passes for the Deans, Mrs. Madix and Mr. Davis. They also delivered the daily bulletins and helped the secretaries in the attendance office with the filing and other secretarial work.

These students were there in the faculty's time of need. The help these students offered was greatly appreciated every day.

The Basic Nature of Things

The Eco team was a group many students didn't hear much about. It was a small team, made up of only four members. What did the Eco team do? They were sent booklets by the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers containing information on three subjects: animal tracks and signs, endangered species, and edible plants. They were allowed to study the booklets for two to three weeks, meeting a couple nights a week. After studying, they met with sixteen other schools at Lake Shelbyville for an annual contest. They took quizzes and had a good time competing for about six hours with no other prize but the memory of everything. It was hard work, and they earned a great deal more praise than was given. The prize goes to Meg McCormick, Laurie Copenhaver, John Moore, and Cathy Johns, but especially advisor Mr. Chamberlain.

The Computer Club gave Eisenhower students good opportunities to use computers. Many students joined the Computer Club to learn some BASIC (Beginner's All-Purpose Symbolic Instruction Code). Others joined to share their computer experiences. All of them joined to have fun and play games.

The club members could work on the computers after school on Thursdays. They had monthly meetings to discuss contests, see demonstrations, or devote time to learning BASIC, all coordinated by Mr. Force, the advisor.

How To Get Ahead in Business

Many students from Eisenhower had a chance to be a part of a real business in Junior Achievement. In one of sixteen companies sponsored by Decatur businessmen, they were working together to accomplish a common goal in the business world.

The students involved enjoyed working, making new friends, and having fun. They were members of the Board of Directors, owned some company stock, and some even became company presidents or one of the company executives. Their incentive for working was receiving a little money and the chance to become the company or achiever of the year.

Candy Striping was for everyone. Not only girls but guys as well were in Candy Striping. Guys were called Knights. The colors were red and white, which begot the name Candy Stripers. Members had to be thirteen before they could work at the hospitals. Both Candy Stripers and Knights worked as aides to the nurses and staff on all floors. Some of the jobs were making beds, distributing food trays to patients, washing beds, or just talking to patients. There was never a dull moment at the hospitals. Candy Stripers earned awards for working a certain amount of hours.

If a member worked several years, he or she might have received a scholarship that could go toward any career.

Candy Striping was a good experience for everyone!

Is There Something I Should Know?

The Eisenhower Panther Press started off at a brisk march and accelerando-ed to furioso. Mrs. Woods, club advisor, called the first meeting and introduced a new song with the assistance of Susan Hanks, editor-in-chief. The staff released the first copy of the "Chatter Box", the monthly gossip column. After that, the issues were humming off the presses with an issue every month. The Panther Press kept the student well informed.

Being a member of the Panther Press required many hours of hard work and dedication. The members spent much of their free time writing and preparing stories. Setting type and pasting up stories required an equal amount of time. There was always the dread of not making the deadlines, the fear of losing a story, and the never-ending fear of something getting lost in the mail. Though the members had to part with an extra hour of sleep to make the morning meetings, they felt it was worth it.

It was not all work and no play. They held a dance in the Spring and for the staff itself, there was a "going away" party at the end of the year. Being a member of the Panther Press was a rewarding experience for everyone involved.

Beating the Deadlines

Once again this year, the yearbook staff was composed mainly of underclassmen. As always, these underclassmen proved to be a great source of strength for the editors to call upon. Without the staff members, the yearbook could not have survived.

Still, every club needs its leaders. Beth Cuddeback was the Editor-in-Chief. It was her job to make everyone work hard to meet their deadlines. Todd Gillespie held down the jobs of Assistant Editor-in-Chief, Business, and Advertising Manager. Basically, he handled the financial and organizational end of the yearbook. Mike Bartimus and Mark Muschal were the Chief Photographers. Other editors were: Valerie Bonnell, Sports; Pam Crews, Faculty; Bridget Dwyer, Classes/Index; Kellie Jones, Clubs and Organizations; and Lowellette Lauderdale, Student Life.

The yearbook staff met every Tuesday and Thursday night. The "usual" meeting lasted only around two hours, but on deadline nights the meetings sometimes stretched as long as seven and a half to eight hours. Teachers could easily recognize the yearbook staff. They were those students who had dark circles under their eyes and none of their homework done! Miss Kareotes, the advisor, often supplied "munchies" to tide the staff over until they got home, if they got home!

On a typical night, the editors would be running around assigning layouts and stories to anyone who moved. Staff members turned into communication services between the yearbook room and the photographer's darkroom. The most common complaint was "more pictures" or "more copy." But, thankfully the yearbook staff pulled together and finished the yearbook, just before the deadline!

We've Only Just Begun

For the first time in its history, Eisenhower had a soccer team. It was a young team, with fifteen freshmen and sophomores. The team was coached by Jan Loftus.

The season started before school did, as the tryouts were conducted in blistering heat. The situation was so bad that nobody was ever really sure if there would be practice some days.

Eisenhower had the honor of playing in the first Decatur High School soccer game. Unfortunately, so did MacArthur, who won four to two. The team finished with a six to five record. This was easily the best among the city high schools.

The most valuable players were Doug Morton and Todd Martin. Todd Martin played sparkling defense, while Doug Morton anchored the offense, and scored five goals. Other important players were Steve Merli with eight goals and Dustin Miller with seven, Chad Coberly, an offensive header, and Scott Morton, the defensive header. Not to be forgotten was Gudrun Gylfadottir, our foreign exchange student, who played fine Finnish offense.

The Warriors

This year's Varsity Football Team's Conference record was 1-4. Overall record was 2-7. "Our team could've done better if we would have had a positive attitude and better conditioning," Coach Smith remarked. He has coached for ten years, and three years of that were as a head coach. This year we had a good backfield and some starters are coming back next year.

Senior newcomer Travis Coffmen, said, "It was a little scary to come to a new school. I had to learn to work with other people." Travis has played three years of football. He wants to go to North Western, as a walk on.

Senior Skip Smith has played for eight years on some kind of team. He has earned two letters and has no college plans at this time. "Coach Smith was a great coach but he gave up too easy on his teams. But most coaches do at some time or another, and they all have their ups and downs in their career," stated Skip.

"We sweat a lot in practice and then we'd dig down deep and half the time we came up empty, but we did try." "Life is like a football game; IT'S A GAMBLE!!" stated Senior Kris Hebel.

"The best thing about football is that it teaches you how to win and how to lose," stated Kris and Travis.

"It's Getting Better All The Time"

The year was a trying year for the Freshman Football team. The team had a great deal of spirit and although they didn't win any games, they still put their all into every game. So, let's look for these guys in the years to come on the Junior Varsity and the Varsity Football teams.

The Junior Varsity Football team had a nice season. They won five games and lost four. They worked hard to win games. As a whole team, they played well together. But there were several outstanding players, which included Matt Brooks, Brad Shepard, Cory Scheibly, and Doug Ausenhemer. These guys deserve a hand for their dedication and spirit.

Don't Break My Stride

What all does a cross-country team do anyway? A cross-country team doesn't just "run" they work out with weights and many other things.

Coach Smith has coached for fourteen years, but only ten at Eisenhower. He didn't have big expectations for his boys' team because they only had five runners. To qualify in a meet you must have five on a team. The girls' expectations were a lot higher. They had a total of nine girls. One upcoming face this year was freshman, Jenni Moore, who won fourth place in the Regionals, and Eighteenth out of 300 in Sectionals.

The runners would practice every night from the middle of August until the end of October. They would work on the long distance run and short distance.

The boys would run a total of three miles and girls a total of two miles. The only problems they had were injuries — the girls were plagued with injuries. This is one reason that they didn't get any farther than Regionals.

The girls have a full returning team, but the boys have three returning runners. The graduating runners are Gerry Melzer and Ted Smith.

Every team has its yearly awards that were given. The Most Improved runners were Shelley Tipsword, and Gerry Melzer. Most Valuable were Ted Smith and Jenni Moore. The First Annual Big Mouth Awards were honored to Sophomores, Brooke Williams, and Kyle Anderson.

Don't Take Me Down

The Varsity Wrestling Team had a SUPER year! Their final record was 14-6. Coach James Cook had a very young but otherwise strong team. He has had only 22 losses in the past three years. Over fifty percent of all his games have been wins. He also will have a strong team coming back, with five Seniors, one Junior, and two Sophomores. The team received 2nd place at the Kankakee Tourney, 2nd at the Urbana Tourney, and 1st at the Olympia Tourney. They also were 2nd in the Big Twelve and 2nd in the Regionals.

"So, all in all, I felt that the boys had a fairly good year," stated Cook.

Freshman Bryon Schultz placed in every tournament with either a first or a second place medal. Senior Walter Scott also placed five times: two 2nd place, two first place, and a 5th place medal. Freshman Brett Shultz received two 2nd place, one third place, and two first place medals. Coach Cook was very satisfied with the ten returning letter-winners, and hopes to have them back.

The Junior Varsity squad had a very good season also. Next year looks exciting because they should have a strong returning team next year. Coach Deremiah did a great job for his first year in high school competition. "The JV team had a fairly good year," stated Coach Cook.

Our tennis team had eight great players this season. Seniors: Shelli Jones, Jane Lemna, Linda Wuellner, and Capt. Stephanie Behrends. Sophomores: Monica Canham, and Kelly Hazenfield, Freshmen: Kelly Androff, and Christy Hill.

Senior Shelli, who began playing in second grade, has won three letters and was voted "The Most Improved Player." "We had a great season but the weather was a big let down to us this year," she stated.

Capt. Behrends has played tennis for five years, and has earned two letters. The only personal goals she had were to "win Sectionals, go to State, and to improve my personal playing skills," remarked Stephanie. She plans on attending Richland and Eastern; she also plans on trying out for the college teams. "We'll need more girls or we won't have a strong team next year," stated Coach Chamberlain. The tennis team was very strong this past season. "We had many good returning players." Mr. Chamberlain has coached boys' tennis for 12 years, but girls' tennis only 2 years.

Their Conference Record was 5-0, and overall record was 9-0. They received 23rd in the state, won Sectionals, and received Second place in their Conference. "The Most Valuable player was voted Stephanie. Next year's captain will be Kelly Hazenfield. Special congratulations to Christy Hill, Kelly Hazenfield, Linda Wuellner, and Stephanie Behrends.

Breaking Records

This year's Varsity Volleyball Team consisted of eleven girls. Seniors were Darla Henry, Missy Buttolph, Michelle Miller, Tammy Blancett, and Capt. Kathy Deardorff. Juniors were Jill Redden, Dawn Pitman, Candy Andricks, and Vickie Bonnell. Sophomores were Kristi Daggett, and Beth Spycher.

The girls had an outstanding season with a 25-7 overall record and a 9-2 record in the Big 12 Conference. They also broke the school record for the most wins in one season. They won Regionals for the third year in a row by beating Mt. Zion and Taylorville. Sectionals were a different story. They went for four games (10-15, 4-15, 15-13, 12-15) but they were still defeated.

The girls felt that they had a strong season and a strong team. They knew what they should have done to win the games that they lost.

Two-year captain, Kathy Deardorff, felt that she met the goals she set, and she felt this was her best year played. "Mr. Wilks will have a strong team next year, he has good players coming back," stated Kathy. She says she does plan on playing volleyball in college.

First-year setter Spycher felt her setting was pretty good, considering it was a new position. "Next year, I feel that my setting will improve, because it is a difficult adjustment," remarked Beth.

"Our team did exceptionally well, and I was really impressed with my performance," stated Michelle.

Tammy, who came to the front row as a permanent position, was really impressed with my performance. "I did not do much in the front row, but what I did usually benefitted the team."

A front-row player, Vickie, won back her back row position during mid-season. She felt that she had a pretty good year, "I really worked hard this year, and I'm ready for next year." She will be a big help next year to her coach.

Dawn Pitman, Beth Spycher, and Kathy Deradorff were named for the Big 12 Volleyball team. This is Kathy's third year and Dawn's and Beth's first year.

Coach Wilks was glad that the girls had such a good year. Next year's team will be just as good, o better than this year's team becaus they have worked together for a least two years. "I was confident w could win the Regionals. We too fourth place in the Central Illinoi Invitational, but Sectional was real fight. So we met all our goals!"

JUMP!

Awesome is but one of the words that could be used to describe the Varsity Basketball team this year. Outstanding and fantastic are others, but the most applicable would be — SURPRISE!!!!

At the beginning of the year, Coach Witt was faced with a team void of starters with the exception of Dan Androff. But what an exception! He was one of the leading scorers on the team and was a natural leader because of his four years on the varsity squad. He was voted MVP in the Illinois State Classic.

As for the rest of the Team? Well, they had a tremendously successful season and surprised and delighted us all by winning the Turkey Tournament at Griswold and the Illinois State Classic at Normal. As icing on the victory cake, the Panthers were ranked thirteenth in the state by the Associated Press.

Aundra Holloway, one of the four seniors of the starting five, felt that the Panthers had an outstandingly successful season. He did not expect them to be so successful at first. "Coach Witt has a lot of confidence in us this year and we did not let him down," the talented forward summed up.

Danny Androff was Eisenhower's pride and joy when it came to making points. Pivot man Danny's goals were to break the school record, to go to State, and to make the Big 12 team.

Coach Witt expects to have a good team next year. Many of his players will be returning, and he suspects that forward Ed Carnine will be a driving force. "We will have a good group for our next year's team," stated Coach Witt.

The PANTHERAMA wishes Coach Witt good luck on his 1985-1986 team.

Here We Come Again

In varsity basketball the girls had an exceptional season this past year. The most serious losses were in a Richwood Tournament in Peoria. But, these losses also helped the girls in their superb final season. "The girls may have lost all the games, but they won three battles also. And they were having to be more aggressive; they learned that they were capable of meeting the top ten schools and beating them, and that if you believe, you can do it," stated Miss Brooks.

Three year letterwinner, Marlene Jones felt she had a very prosperous senior year and hopes to play for Bradley.

Three year letterwinner Kathy Deardorff was surprised that the girls could pull together so fast and work as a team. Kathy has no plans to play basketball in college; she is considering playing maybe in intramurals.

Junior Vickie Bonnell who was benched mid-season with a broken wrist, rooted her team on to many victories. Her wrist was healed just in time so she could help the team at Tournament time.

Three year letterwinner Dawn Pitman had improved her rebounding and her scoring a great deal over the last year. She also felt that the girls had a great season, somewhat better than she expected.

WAY TO GO GO!!

The freshman girls worked very hard to win as many games as they could, which was less than half of them, but they still had a great learning season.

On the other hand, the boys' freshman team was struck with the eligibility problem of members who were normally their starters; this young team will be remembered for their tremendous enthusiasm.

The Boys' Junior Varsity team was a bit of a disappointment, but they gave it all to try and win. "I thought that we would at least make 500, so it was somewhat of a let down in this area," stated Coach Sly. Coach Sly has coached for six years, and this was his first losing season, so it was a big adjustment for him.

This years' girls Junior Varsity team had a great season under the great coaching of Mike Wilks. Really the only expectations that he had for the girls were to have another undefeated season, and to prepare them for the Varsity playing level. Freshman Debi Weaver, felt that she had improved her weakest area while Freshman, Dana Morrison felt that the JV had a super year, and they should have high expectations for next year. "I felt that I had improved a great deal; the team and Mr. Wilks were always very supportive to me," remarked Dana.

Freshman Cindy Burch, never expected to be on the JV team or even a starter. Cindy's biggest moment this season was in Lincoln. The score was tied in the fourth quarter only a few seconds to go. Then Cindy was fouled, and the game was up to her. "I was so nervous, all I could think of was what if I miss them both, who would win then?" Cindy later stated. However, Cindy pulled through and made both of her shots to lead her team to another victory.

The J.V. Girls have a 36-1 record for the past two years.

We are the Champions!

The Eisenhower girls' Bowling team ended their season with an undefeated record of 12-0. Due mostly to the five returning letterwinners: Seniors Linda Wuellner, Darla Henry; Juniors Carolyn Thommas, Melinda Poe, and Kim Cookson. Melissa Jones, Freshman, also contributed to the wins and had earned her first Varsity Letter. Junior Valerie Bonnell returned to help the J.V. team with their season. The eighth bowler on the team was Freshman Tracy Bonnell.

On February 1, the day before Sectionals, WAND-TV came out and filmed the girls in action.

At the sectionals the team started out slow but they then exploded in the 2nd round, ending in second place, with 4,699 pins.

Melinda received second in individuals at Sectionals with 1011 pins. On February 8, she went to state and placed 46th. At Sectionals Carolyn placed 5th with 967 pins; Linda received 8th with 911 pins. Kim placed 10th with 832 pins; Darla received 12th with 817 pins.

Carolyn Thommas had high series for the season with 592. Other high series were Kim Cookson 567, Lindy 545, Linda 540, Darla 537, and Melissa 501. Linda Wuellner had high game with a 216. Other games were Kim 212, Carolyn 209, Darla 205, Missy 201, and Lind 200.

Four year letter winner, Linda Wuellner, who also placed her freshman year at state tournament, reflects, "My Junior year I felt, was my best year, because it was my best average and it was the highest ever, when our team was ranked eleventh in the state.

Melinda Poe was very surprised when she received 2nd in individuals. But it would have been better if the team would have been able to go with her for morale support. Mrs. Collins was very pleased to have a team that was as experienced as they were. Coach Collins herself has been bowling for 25 years. "Next year's team will be very strong because of the four returning lettermen." She added that the only expectations she had were to return to state and to have an undefeated season which they did, EHS's bowling team had only lost one game in the past two seasons.

What's Your Best Thing

A water (snow) bunny.

Lori Krueger has been water skiing since she was 5 years old. She has won many awards with her skiing. In 1984-1985 she won the Regional Championship and tried for first in Nationals at Zachary, Louisiana. Lori is also thinking about going professional and possibly doing some traveling with her skiing but she has not yet decided. Lori's father, Fred Krueger, a 1984 champion himself, has been Lori's trainer for many years. . She also has an official trainer who works with her in Tournament time like last summer. Lori and her father are not the only ones who water ski in her family. Her mother skies, her 12 year old sister, and her 9 year old brother also ski. "My family and I go up to Burrow Pit in Harristown. Water Skiing is a great way to relax, to get a good workout and to stay cool while you're doing it." Lori does plan on competing this summer again at many events.

right: Lori hits the waves at Burrows Pit this past summer.

Hoops equal TWO points!

Aundra Holloway has been playing ball for four years, only one in high school. Aundra mainly played forward areas because she likes the rough areas of the court. "I was shocked when I found out that I was picked as MVP. An MVP is not possible unless he has a strong team to back him up," stated Holloway. His college plans are undecided at this time.

Danny Androff, was a four year letter winner, the only one in Eisenhower's History to have been on a Varsity starting team since the first day of practice. "It was pretty scary, but after a while it became easier. I always had a lot of pressure to do good work," commented Danny. One of Danny's goals was to break the school record for the points scored in a four year period. Danny had scored 833 points at the end of his Junior year. The school record is 1242 points by Jerry Nixon.

"We had a great season; we lost a few games that we should not have lost, like to SDHS and MHS." Danny has played basketball for eight years, since he was 10. He has made the All Macon County Team for the past three years. "Getting MVP at the ISU Tournament was a great experience, but winning the tournament was even a better one," said Danny. Danny's college plans are also undecided; Eisenhower will miss having an Androff on the boys' varsity teams next year!

We wish both players a successful college career.

Bump, Set, and Spike!

Three of the players from the 1984-1985 volleyball team made the Big 12 Conference Team this year.

First was sophomore setter Beth Spycher, who was picked this year to help in the setting department. Beth has only played ball for three years, and has received one Varsity letter. "I was stunned when I found out that I had made the Big 12," said Beth.

Junior newcomer Dawn Pitman, has only been playing ball for three years. She did not play her sophomore year. "I plan on moving to the backrow; I couldn't believe it! I was so surprised when I found out I made it."

Four year letter winner Kathy Deardorff, who has made the Big 12 Conference Team for the past two years, has played volleyball for five years total. Kathy would like to have a volleyball scholarship. "It will be hard to get one because I'm only 5'4" tall," explained Deardorff. Kathy feels that this year was her best year. WE WISH KATHY LUCK ON HER SCHOLARSHIP.

Tee for Two

The golf team consisted of eighteen golfers.

Senior Mike Locke, who had played for eleven years, had won three letters out of four years of varsity. Mike planned on trying for De Pauw's golf team next year. His highest game was 39 at Lincolnshire C.C., 86 in qualifying rounds. "I played poorly; I had a confidence problem early in the season and so I never really played up to my potential," stated Locke. Mike felt that Mr. Watson did a great job for his 1st year. "I missed Mr. LeMaster because he was a certified golf professional." The Yearbook wishes you luck at DePauw University.

Bruce, Mike, and Brian Habbe were the carries for the team, the team leaders, the strong men.

Mr. Watson has coached golf for four years, the past three as a co-coach with Mr. LeMaster and this past year as head coach. "I was surprised to see that we won the number we did, with only having one senior. So, I bettered my expectation."

"The only goals I had for my team was to improve the emotional attitudes of two of my players. Also, to finish the upper half at the Regionals."

Mr. Watson has 15 players coming back and he hopes to win over half of their meets. Also, he wants to win the Regionals, like the golfers did in 1982.

Leaders Of The Band

If the students were asked what part of the school was most important, chances were that they wouldn't have said "the faculty." But the school without the faculty would have been like an orchestra without a conductor. All the students and textbooks would have been there, but there would have been no one to guide the students toward learning.

When students talked of the faculty, most of the time they were referring to the teachers; but the teachers were just a small portion of the faculty.

The secretarial staff was just as important, maybe more so, for without the secretaries, the teachers would have been bogged down by the paperwork, and no teaching would have gotten done. The custodial staff kept the school clean and the essential school equipment running. The administrative staff kept the books on each student, and disciplined any students who needed disciplining.

The faculty members that the students ran into most, however, were the teachers. The students' lives were shaped enormously by the teachers they encountered. For example, who could ever forget Mr. Nelson, with his unique way of quieting a class with a ruler very forcefully applied to some hapless student's desk. Any student who had that happen to him would certainly be influenced for life.

The students owed the faculty a great debt, but, at times, the students never seemed to appreciate them. Even if they acted disrespectfully at times, however, the students appreciated the faculty, for without the faculty there would never have been any organized learning in Eisenhower High School.

A Touch of Music

We were in a musical mood this year so we hope that everyone else was in tune with us as we tried to portray another year at E.H.S.

It has been fun singing our way along as we have tried to record all the happenings. Each event has reminded us of a song so we have kept in as happy a mood as we could.

Ours has been a year of success and the music has truly gone round and round. Our musical groups won many musical events. By distinguishing themselves in contests and concerts, they have been a credit to our school.

Music reached us as no other medium could. There was a song for every purpose. It helped us to tackle lessons and problems cheerfully. It cheered us on to a victory in a game. It promoted friendships. It lifted our spirits when we were sad. It spoke a universal language. Music has been, and always will be, a part of our lives.

Colophon: This 1984-85 edition of the PANTHERAMA is a 176 page, 9" x 12" book with a silkscreen cover of 160 pt. binders board. Base material for the cover is smoky blue with ivory applied color. Our endsheets were made of 65 pound paper, which is grey with black artwork. We used 80 pound Calais paper in the book with Garamond type style for the copy. This book was published at Herff Jones Yearbook Co., Marceline Missouri.

Closing a yearbook is always hard for an editor; this year was no exception. It is impossible to work closely with a major project like the PANTHERAMA without forming sentimental attachments to it and to the people with whom I have worked. To thank them appropriately would take pages.

First, my sincere thanks to Miss Kareotes, our yearbook advisor, who was always there when we needed her. She also found something for us to eat on those nights we stayed late!

The book's production depended on Bob Donnelly, our representative; without his constant support and understanding, we never would have made it.

For their facilitating schedules and people we give much appreciation to Principal Bill F. Rohrscheib, Vice Principal Gordon Davis, Deans Mary Jane Madix and Walter Scott the efficient administrative staff of Eisenhower High School.

For keeping the school's massive communications details running smoothly we thank all the secretarial staff.

Special thanks to the photographers; senior pictures, club and team pictures, special events pictures — Don Roberts studio. Underclassmen and staff pictures — James Fletcher of Interstate studios. Selected sports shots — Mrs. Bob Witt. AVA and darkroom supervisor — Ken Seidl. Without them the yearbook wouldn't have been completed either.

My deepest gratitude goes to an excellent editorial staff to whom this book really owes its existence, with special mention to Pam Crews, Faculty Editor, and Todd Gillespie, Business Manager. Finally, my special appreciation to all of the parents of staff members and to my parents and friends, whose patience and understanding have made this year much easier for me.

Beth Cuddeback — Editor

Editor's note; Song titles and album names are used only as captions and no reference to the content of the book is intended.
